

Academic Gynecologic Oncology Position in New Jersey

The Department of Obstetrics, Gynecology and Reproductive Health at Rutgers New Jersey Medical School has a full-time, junior-level position in Gynecologic Oncology available with rank and salary commensurate with experience. Applicant must demonstrate experience and competence in Gynecologic Oncology clinical care including surgery, chemotherapy, and clinical/translational investigation. Candidates who qualify and are interested in protected research time should consider applying. In addition to clinical duties, the successful candidate will be responsible for lectures, didactic clinical instruction for residents, fellows, NJMS medical students, and participate in clinical research and patient outcomes.

The position will serve both inpatients and outpatients seen in both public and community hospitals in Newark, NJ and surrounding community. The scope and breath of the applicant's clinical activities will promote professional interests while covering clinical needs.

New Jersey's academic health center, Rutgers Biomedical and Health Sciences (RBHS) takes an integrated approach to educating students, providing clinical care, and conducting research, all with the goal of improving human health. This position is at Rutgers- New Jersey Medical School (NJMS) in Newark, NJ. Aligned with the Cancer Institute of New Jersey (NJ's only NCI-Designated Comprehensive Cancer Center), Rutgers University–New Brunswick and collaborating university-wide, RBHS includes eight schools, a behavioral health network, and five centers and institutes that focus on cancer treatment and research, neuroscience, advanced biotechnology and medicine, environmental and occupational health, and health care policy and aging research. Global maternal health activities and initiatives are welcomed and encouraged.

Our location offers the best of all worlds including excellent schools, a suburban or urban lifestyle and the full spectrum of indoor and outdoor leisure activities. New York City is easily accessible via a 20-minute train ride.

To qualify, the candidate must be board eligible/certified in Obstetrics & Gynecology and Gynecologic Oncology; demonstrate experience and competence in Gynecologic Oncology. The applicant must have interest in teaching and supervising medical students and residents.

This full-time position offers a competitive salary with a full and comprehensive benefits package. Academic rank and salary will be commensurate with experience. Interested candidates should forward letter of interest with curriculum vitae to: Victor Marques, Director of Administration, Department of Obstetrics, Gynecology and Reproductive Health, Rutgers New Jersey Medical School, Medical Science Building, Room E508, 185 South Orange Avenue, Newark, NJ 07103; Email marquevm@njms.rutgers.edu .

Rutgers the State University of New Jersey, is an Equal Opportunity/Affirmative Action Employer, and is compliant with the Americans with Disabilities Act (ADA). For more information, please visit <http://recruitment.rutgers.edu/TheRUCommitment.htm>.

